'Ifs' May Delay Legislature's Adjournment

Appropriations Bill, Industrial Measure May Cause Battle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The way could be cleared next week for the Ohio Legislature to move toward adjournment of the 1963 session by mid-June, but a couple of pretty big "ifs" are involved.

A major factor is the big $13 billion appropriations bill which could come up for a vote in the House next week. House passage of the big money bill could signal an end of the session in June, legislative leaders say.

Also expected to come up for a vote next week in the House is a measure to create a department for industrial expansion.

Before winding up their work week Thursday, the death knell was sounded in the Senate for a bill that would have allowed the state to grant mineral rights to private groups.

The motion to kill the House-approved bill came from Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-Lawrence, following a storm of protest from persons who viewed it as a potential threat that some 130,000 acres of state-owned land might be devastated by strip-mine shovels. Most of the protests had come from Coshocton County.

The House completed passage of a Senate-approved bill to allow supervised sports car racing at Put-in-Bay, Lake Erie. Containing an emergency clause, the enactment becomes effective upon signing by the governor.

The act requires public liability insurance of $250,000 for a single accident injury or death and $1 million for death or injury of two or more. Property damage insurance would be $50,000.

The House agreed to reconsider the 76-48 vote by which a bill to abolish the Ohio Aviation Board passed last Tuesday. Actual reconsideration was deferred until an unspecified date.

Rep. James Thorpe, R - Stark, offered a joint House-Senate resolution calling for a popular vote next November to determine whether Ohio's Sunday closing laws should be retained or abolished.

Thorpe said he offered the constitutional amendment proposal because it appeared that a House-passed bill to revise the so-called "blue laws" would die in the Senate. He asserted voters should say at the polls whether they want to keep those laws.

First A-Sub's Skipper Called Back to Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has called back from retirement Capt. William R. Anderson, former skipper of the pioneer nuclear submarine Nautilus, to help pull together its underwater rescue programs and techniques for salvage from the ocean floor.

Anderson's return to temporary active duty with a new naval group was learned today, little more than two weeks after the nuclear submarine Thresher sank a mile and a half under the Atlantic's waves with 129 men.

Because of the great depth the Navy holds out no hope for salvaging the Thresher. And the Navy said there are no plans now for Anderson's group to have any direct part in the search to locate the submarine's hull.

Anderson, 41, who had been a Nautilus shipmate of the Thresher.

Sen. Morton Claims Kennedy Playing Politics Over Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky has charged President Kennedy with playing politics over Cuba.

There are "distinct political overtones," Morton told the Senate Thursday, to Kennedy's suggestion at a news conference Wednesday that Fidel Castro might not be a problem now if the Eisenhower administration had taken action.

"During the 1950s there were few, if any, Republican voices raised in support of Castro and there were few, if any, Democratic voices raised in condemnation of Castro," Morton declared. "This record is clear."

The Kentuckian, a former Republican national chairman, said the Eisenhower administration took steps in March 1960 to train and equip an expeditionary force of Cuban exiles to invade Cuba. "For various reasons, including the difficulty of finding proper leadership," Morton continued, the plan could not be implemented during the administration's remaining 10 months in power.

When the invasion was attempted under the Kennedy administration in April 1961 at the Bay of Pigs it failed, Morton added.

The senator said Kennedy had showed bold initiative during the missile showdown last fall, but now is pursuing "a wishy-washy policy of backing and stalling."

Other Republicans who commented Thursday picked up Kennedy's challenge to critics of his Cuban policy to say whether they favor an invasion to topple Castro.

"Republicans have not advocated invasion of Cuba," said Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. "Neither have they shrunk because of fear from the possibility of this happening."

Goldwater said that while he does not advocate early invasion of the island, he is not afraid of going to war over Cuba.

"If we are not willing to take risks in this world," he said in an interview, "we might as well give up."

Another persistent critic of the administration, Rep. William C. Cramer of Florida, said in a separate interview: "President Kennedy is peddling a fear-of-war psychosis to hide his own fear of action."

"Nobody in Congress is proposing war," Cramer said. "But the United States has sent troops to Thailand and Viet Nam. It has troops in Berlin. And the President says we can't do anything about Cuba. That sounds very hollow to me."

Tax Cut Asked By Businessmen

$10 Billion Slash Proposed In 1963

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of prominent businessmen headed by Henry Ford II has called for a $10 billion cut in corporate and individual taxes — a move hailed by President Kennedy as demonstrating "a high sense of statesmanship."

The call for a tax cut was in a statement of principles issued by Ford and 35 other industrialists and financiers Thursday as they launched a drive to whip up interest in tax reduction.

Among the major recommendations of the group, called the Business Committee for Tax Reduction in 1963, are that Congress make a substantial part of the reduction effective as early as possible this year and that a reasonable balance be struck between federal income and expenditures.

Th plan the President has presented to Congress—a three-year $13.6-billion cut to be partly offset by $3.4 billion of revenue-raising changes in the tax structure — was not endorsed as such.

In fact, the businessmen who met Thursday with Kennedy at the White House suggested specifically that consideration of revisions should be removed from the path of tax reduction lest cuts in rates be snarled in debate.

"Personally, I don't agree with the proposed reforms," Ford told a news conference.

Still, the new group is operating with the active support of the White House and the Treasury Department, which are pushing hard for congressional approval of a tax cut and are trying to rally as much support in the business com-

Disabled Voters' Ballots Available

If patients at hospitals or rest homes file applications with the County Election Board for disabled voters' ballots for the May 7 primaries, two deputy clerks will be sent to the institutions to deliver the ballots and supervise the balloting, Frank R. O'Hanlon, board clerk, said today.

The Election Board has followed the practice for several years, designating two deputies of opposite political parties to supervise the balloting.

O'Hanlon said 96 civilian absentee and disabled voters' ballots have been issued to date. The board also has issued 39 ballots under the so-called "soldier voting law" for members of the armed forces, their spouses and civilians residing temporarily outside the U.S.

Dislikes JFK's Western Europe Plan

Rockefeller Hits Nuclear Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says the Kennedy administration's nuclear programs for Western Europe would cause a "crazy quilt of nuclear forces within NATO." He urges a "genuine political partnership" with our Atlantic allies.

Rockefeller, a potential but unannounced candidate for the Republican nomination for president in 1964, spoke Thursday night at the 50th anniversary dinner of the Bureau of Advertising. The bureau is an autonomous corporation coordinating with, but not affiliated with the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The governor told 1,700 newspaper publishers and other executives: "Though the administration has talked a great deal about partnership, it is treating our friends of the Atlantic alliance as dependent allies rather than independent partners."

He termed the administration's proposals, in regard to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, "ill-lusory and shifting" in the field of nuclear policy, which he said amounts to "a prescription for chaos" rather than a "grand design."

Rockefeller proposed a five-point program which includes establishment of a permanent NATO committee, with the U.S. representative being of cabinet rank.

"This permanent group should be charged with exploring areas of common action," he said. "It should work on a common policy for relations with the Soviet Union, particularly with respect to negotiations."

One of the committee's most important tasks, he said, should be to devise policies which would enable other regions—such as Latin America, Japan and other Pacific nations, Southeast Asia and Africa—to participate in the progress of the Atlantic area "on the basis of mutual equality and respect."

The United States, Rockefeller continued, should help bring a

Man Held In Hiker's Death Is Released

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — Tight-lipped authorities have freed one of two men questioned at length about the roadside slaying of a Maryland integration pilgrim.

The other man still was being held today on an open charge. The man released was identified as Gaddis Killian, 44, who reportedly turned himself in when his wife told him officers had been looking for him.

Neither he nor authorities would talk to newsmen when he was released late Thursday night.

The Tuesday night rifle slaying of William L. Moore, 35, a Baltimore mailman, was termed a "senseless, brutal killing with no apparent motive except hate" by a state investigator, Lt. Maurice Chambers.

Moore was hiking from Chattanooga, Tenn., to Jackson, Miss., where he had hoped to present his antisegregation views to Gov. Ross Barnett.

Authorities declined to name the men they picked up, but Mrs. Killian and Mrs. Floyd Simpson said their husbands were taken into custody Thursday for questioning.

Mrs. Simpson said her husband operates a small store in a building owned by Killian. The location is about 18 miles from another store Moore stopped at shortly before he was shot twice at close range with a rifle.

Prointegration signs Moore was carrying were found near the body.

After investigators abruptly ended their hours-long questioning of the two men, six state and county officers went to adjacent DeKalb County, apparently to check out a new lead.

Maj. Bill Jones, chief of the investigative division of the State Department of Public Safety, declined to comment on the progress of the investigation.

Nikita Says He Can't Be Red Boss Forever

Officials' Opinions Vary on Reason For Statement

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev admits he is aging like any mortal and won't head the Soviet Communist party and government forever. But foreign opinion here was split today over whether the 69-year-old leader brought the matter up in public because he plans to give up either post soon.

"I am already 69 and I have the right to say so," Khrushchev told a meeting of industry and construction workers. "Everyone understands that I cannot hold for all time the position I now have in the party and the state."

The three-hour speech, made on Wednesday, was published in full today in all Moscow newspapers. Khrushchev made no mention of quitting either post. But his remarks set off a dispute among Western observers in Moscow whether he might announce such plans at a meeting of the party central committee called for May 28. It has been announced that the committee will discuss ideological matters.

Khrushchev holds two official posts: chairman of the council of ministers, or premier, and first secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

Some observers are convinced Khrushchev is determined to hold onto both jobs until he dies. Others have been speculating that the Soviet leader might give up the secretaryship, the premiership or both.

(U.S. experts in Washington expressed doubt that Khrushchev is going to step down for a while. Despite occasional rumors to the contrary, Washington authorities have no evidence that Khrushchev is in danger of being ousted from his Kremlin command.)

Several members of the Soviet hierarchy are considered possible political heirs to Khrushchev, and three deputy premiers are considered leading contenders. They are Frol R. Kozlov, 54, a Khrushchev favorite; Anastas I. Mikoyan, 67, also a close associate, and Alexei Kosygin, 58, an industrial authority.

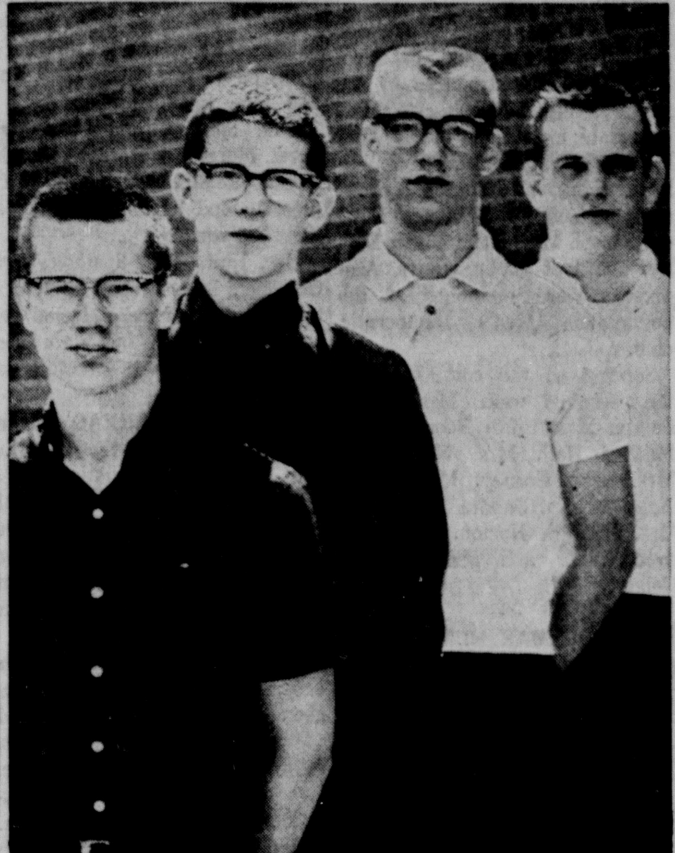

Under the system of party authority which Khrushchev stressed in his speech the party's central committee would choose his successor.

Khrushchev dwelt at length on the party's drive to impose authority on Soviet art and literature. In an apparent reply to intellectuals who have assailed his insistence on cultural conformity, Khrushchev said that the "tried and tested leader of the Soviet people is our Communist party, its Leninist central committee to which the most authoritative men and women in the party and the

Harriman, Gromyko Discuss Situation

JFK's Laos Note Delivered to Nikita

MOSCOW (AP) — Diplomatic troubleshooter W. Averell Harriman put before Premier Khrushchev today an appeal from President Kennedy for help in bringing peace to Laos.

Harriman and U.S. Ambassador Foy Kohler went to the Kremlin to see the Soviet premier after talking for 2½ hours with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"Each of us reassured the other that our governments are determined to do all they can to assure the independence and neutrality of Laos," Harriman told newsmen after his meeting with Gromyko.

The U.S. undersecretary of state declined to say whether he was optimistic or pessimistic. "I would not know about using those words," he said.

Harriman carried a personal letter from Kennedy asking Khrushchev to help enforce the Geneva neutrality of the tiny Southeast Asian kingdom threatened by Communist-controlled Pathet Lao forces.

Prospects appeared remote that the Soviets would intervene to check the Pathet Lao.

In Laos, informed sources in Vietnamese reported the Pathet Lao shelled positions held by neutralist Gen. Kong Le's troops with artillery and mortars from 5 a.m. until 2 p.m. Thursday but apparently did not otherwise try to drive the neutralists from their positions. The firing reportedly stopped when a storm broke over the area.

The sources said that members of the International Control Commission who flew to the Plain de Jarres at the time heard and saw the Pathet Lao shell bursts.

Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator at the Geneva conference on Laos, arrived from London Thursday night aboard a Soviet airliner.

Judge Studies Bid To Quash Indictment

LISBON — A motion to quash a concealed weapons indictment and to suppress evidence against three Mahoning County men was taken under consideration Thursday by Common Pleas Court Judge Raymond S. Buzzard.

Atty. Jack W. Nybell of Youngstown filed the motion in behalf of Amil Alfred Dinsio, 26, of Poland and Harold J. Dailey, 32, and Daniel A. Marshall, 33, both of Austintown, who were indicted by the April Grand Jury.

Judge Buzzard deferred his decision pending a study of the 79 pages of testimony presented in the case.

All three defendants are free on bond and did not appear at the hearings.

In arguing his motion, Atty. Nybell claimed the Columbiana and Mahoning county officers illegally searched the cars of the defendants without a search warrant, although they had ample time to secure one.

The trio was arrested March 28 at the Turkey Run Inn, east of Columbiana, by officers who had stalked out the place.

Found in the men's car were a couple of pistols and a quantity of rare coins allegedly stolen from Gene D. Costalas at his home in Weirton, W. Va., the night they were apprehended.

Gas Blamed In Explosion of W. Virginia Pit

Missing Workers Feared Dead by Rescue Officials

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Rescue crews working their way slowly into the Clinchfield Coal Co. Compass No. 2 mine today found the bodies of three of 22 miners trapped by a violent gas explosion deep inside the mine.

There was little hope the other 19 would be found alive.

Two of the victims were sprawled in the main passageway about 1½ miles from the foot of the main shaft. The third body was nearby. None was identified. The 22 men, all married, have 59 dependents among them.

Announcement of the finding of the first victims of the Thursday's explosion was made by mine Supt. Harry Chapman, whose brother is one of the missing miners.

The bodies, Chapman reported, were found near the opening of a drift in which 13 miners were scheduled to be working when a rumbling gas explosion hit the mine.

Seven other men were assigned to a drift 2,000 feet farther into the mine and two men were assisting both crews.

Outside the mine's entrance, women, coal miners in working gear, police and coal company officials kept vigil.

There was nothing on the outside to indicate what had taken place. Fans which circulate air through the mine continued to operate. The shaft was not damaged. The elevator which can carry 10 men down into the working area was still operating.

Leonard Timms, state mines director, said the trapped men were about 1½ miles from the shaft when the explosion rumbled through the deep works.

As rescue crews leapt through mine drifts toward the explosion area 5,000 feet back in the mine, a company official said:

"We have hopes, but chances are slim they're still alive."

At the shaft head at Dola, six miles northwest of here, wives of the trapped men, officials, off-shift workers and miners who escaped the blast kept a dawn vigil. State Police blocked rural roads to keep away the curious. Ambulances and rescue vehicles stood by.

The explosion, tentatively laid to deadly and explosive methane gas, possibly in combination

Couple Given $1,500 In Traffic Mishap Suit

A Salem area couple was awarded $1,500 Thursday by a Common Pleas Court jury which deliberated about four hours in a traffic collision civil suit at the Lisbon Courthouse.

William H. and Edith Irene Moore, RD 3, were awarded this amount for damages and expenses in a traffic accident Jan. 13, 1961 on Rt. 62, at the entrance to Barnett's Restaurant about two miles west of Salem.

The couple had sought $9,000, and their son, Donald Moore, driver of their car, asked $7,500 from Mervin J. Vonada, Howard, Pa., the other motorist.

The jury of nine women and three men awarded Donald nothing. The trial began Tuesday morning before Judge Raymond S. Buzzard.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Health Questions, Answers

Note to the Reader: The measles vaccine described in an earlier article has at last been released by the federal government for general distribution. Your doctor should now be able to get it without difficulty.

Q—I have been told I have leukoplakia. What causes it? Is it curable?

A—Leukoplakia refers to a white area on the mucous membrane of the palate, gums, tongue, penis, or vulva. In the mouth, it is usually associated with heavy smoking. Since the condition is often a forerunner of cancer, a small bit of the affected area should be removed and examined microscopically by a pathologist.

This will determine whether you have true leukoplakia or one of the conditions, such as lichen planus, that may present a similar appearance. It will also show whether any cancer cells are already present.

If the condition is true leukoplakia, the safest procedure is surgical removal of the spots.

Q—I am 70, and my problem is one of cold feet and legs at night. The bedroom is not too cold or too hot. Sometimes my feet get cold when I'm nervous or upset. Could anemia or heart disease be the cause?

A—The circulation in your feet is not as good as it used to be. If you are usually troubled only at night, normal activity during the day gives your legs adequate circulation. Cold feet associated with nervousness is as old as mankind, and is due to a reflex constriction of the arteries in your feet.

Anemia or heart trouble might aggravate a sense of coldness in your feet, but would cause other and more serious symptoms that would lead your doctor to the right diagnosis.

If you are not wearing thick wool socks in bed, do so. An electric pad or hot water bottle when you first go to bed should help, but you must be careful not to burn yourself. Along with impairment of circulation there is often impairment of feeling. This might lead you to burn yourself without knowing it.

Q—Two years ago I had a cyst removed from my breast. About a year ago, the soreness came back. It lasts for about 15 days before each menstrual period. My doctor said the pain is due to scar tissue and not to worry, but I don't see why it would hurt only part of every month.

A—It is not unusual for some women even without scar tissue to have soreness in their breasts for a few days preceding a menstrual period. In your case, the presence of scar tissue seems to have triggered or aggravated this physiologic phenomenon. Let your doctor make a periodic check for tumors of the breasts, and follow his advice not to worry.

Q—When a woman has a heart attack, does it affect her mind so she doesn't seem to recognize anyone or know what has happened?

A—A heart attack would not affect a person in the way described, but epilepsy or hysteria might.

Living Costs Inch Up to Set Record

WASHINGTON AP — Living costs edged up one-tenth of one per cent in March to a record.

Higher costs of used cars, clothing and home ownership items, principally real estate taxes and water rates, boosted the Labor Department's consumers price index to 106.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

The old high of 106.1 in the index was first reached last September and also stood at that level in February.

Anywhere performance gets an open test...

RIVERSIDE!
This 500-mile California classic is a make-or-break grind that can tear a car apart. It was fierce, open competition, and it was Ford home first!

MONTE CARLO!
The rugged 2,500-mile Monte Carlo Rallye is Europe's toughest test of stamina and durability! This year Falcon won 1-2 in its class!

DAYTONA!
Daytona is the big daddy of all stock car events, and Ford swept all competition aside to win the first five places.

ATLANTA!
500 scorching miles that put a car's stamina and durability to the toughest test. And, once again Ford came home a winner. That's Ford's total performance!

FORD'S THE TOTAL PERFORMANCE CHAMP!

Open competition is the only real way to prove how carefully a car is put together, how tough it is, how solidly it holds the road, how well it brakes, and turns and accelerates. And, in open competition, only Ford has a record like this.

What does all this mean to you? Take Daytona —just one of many. The 500 blazing miles at Daytona easily equal more than several years of normal driving. Not all cars finished. The pace simply tore them apart. Yet Ford finished first, second, third, fourth and fifth—proof of Ford's stamina and built-in durability. Ford proved the same thing earlier at Riverside...later at Atlanta. Falcon proved it at Monte Carlo. But for the best proof of all that Ford-built cars outperform competition...come on in and drive one!

Nixon Is Back In Politics

Richard M. Nixon has done such a masterful job of outlining an alternative Cuban policy that everybody should know its essence. No one is pleased with existing Cuban policy, not even the Kennedy administration. Following the October climax, it seemed for a time that firmness had forced the Soviet Union to retreat.

But it is plain now that the Soviet Union only sidestepped. It did not retreat. It never will retreat unless its force meets a greater force in this hemisphere.

This is where Mr. Nixon applies his logic. The United States, he advises, must provide the force required to force the Soviet Union to retreat — not to sidestep but to retreat.

It must announce publicly it will do whatever must be done to force Russians off Cuba. It must do this in the hope that a resolution will make force necessary. It also must realize that if force becomes necessary it will need to be less than will be needed later.

There is nothing to be gained by waiting.

MR. NIXON rejects the Kennedy administration's proposition that the way to cope with Communists in Cuba is to outlast them.

He puts forth the proposition that the only way to cope with Communists in Cuba is to tell them the United States will do whatever is necessary to throw them out. We are being pushed because we are pushable.

He hopes a show of resolution might be in enough in itself to get the job done, but he is ready to face the consequences if it isn't enough to get the job done.

Thus, the American people have a chance to look at an alternative to the Kennedy administrations wait-and-see policy.

Mr. Nixon thinks what will be seen if we wait is going to be far worse than what we should be looking at right now.

He has no confidence in wishful thoughts about the better nature of men like Nikita Khrushchev. There is no reason to hope they will take a turn for the better. They cannot be trusted.

RECENT HISTORY shows what lies behind the Nixon proposition.

Three times the United States has convinced Communists it would do whatever was necessary to prevent the spread of their influence.

It kept them at bay in Korea with a bloody, costly military action; they did not win there.

It kept them from launching an invasion of Formosa, and the Truman Doctrine kept them from overpowering Greece and Turkey.

In a larger sense, determination to stop Communism at any cost necessary has saved what now constitutes the Free World from the imminent threat of being overpowered by Communists. There is precedent for Mr. Nixon's faith in his proposition.

MR. NIXON is kept busy explaining that he is not putting himself back into the political picture. As to that, only one thing need to be said.

Whenever an American emerges as a sense-maker in public discussion he enters the political picture. Mr. Nixon is a relatively young man—only 50.

What he says on problems like Cuba makes sense. Like it or not, he is back in politics.

Man At the Door

Caveat emptor: Let the buyer beware!

This is the time of the year when door to door salesmen, phone solicitors and even mail advertisers try to put across their schemes on gullible purchasers. And, many succeed, because their sales pitch sounds good and they produce what looks like good credentials. Once the purchaser signs on the dotted line, however, he or she is "hooked."

Salem is no exception for this type of fast sales work, although most residents deal directly with their well-known, long-established local merchants.

If one of the itinerant salesmen gets into your home, the best way to get him to depart would be to ask him to leave his contract with you so that you may have your attorney check it over. That will usually end the conversation.

Aiding KSU Center

Early response to the Kent State University Salem Academic Center's scholarship fund drive is most gratifying. Individuals and organizations have come through immediately with $2,000, to assist in establishing a scholarship fund whereby worthy students in the district can be aided in pursuing college courses at the KSU Center's convenient night time classes here. The goal is only $4,500, but $5,700 for establishing a much-needed library is a companion objective.

The college extension program is a real community asset and a helping hand to graduating high school seniors who can not go away to school to further their education.

Washington Maps

By Truman Twill

The "nation's capital," as Washington likes to be called, is the April mecca for the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Association of American Shipbuilders and the American Society of Newspaper Editors, as well as a million shouting, hand-holding, camera-bearing school kids.

Fortunately, the city is large enough to accommodate all these and more without loss of composure. There is no way to tell the visitors from the natives when the former takes off their badges and park their cameras. For all I know, the babe with the poodle might have been a patriot.

Naturally—and inevitably—visitors gravitate to the places most worth seeing. They hang on the White House fence, swarm up the steps of the Capitol, gaze upward at the great statue in the Lincoln Memorial and saunter around the periphery of the reflecting basin while admiring the simple beauty of the Jefferson Memorial.

It is in their behalf that this April visitor to Washington would like to make a proposal that would cost only a few thousand dollars. For a city on which money is lavished like a king's mistress, a few thousand dollars might make no impression, so make it a few million.

There should be glass-enclosed maps erected in places where sauntering tourists take their bearings. The map should tell the tourist where he is and make it easy for him to know how to get where he wants to be.

A gadget in the London Underground makes it possible for a traveler to press a button and find out how to go from where hay while the sun was shining tells the story.

Wheeling Steel had to adjust to United States Steel, which had to adjust to Bethlehem, Republic, Jones & Laughlin etc. In general, all steel producers must adjust to the cold fact their current boom is an inventory buildup in fear of a midsummer strike, when no steel of major consequence would be produced.

The sun won't be shining all summer. They knew this when Wheeling Steel led off the price boosts. They knew why candid spokesmen for the industry questioned the steel industry's ability to support a higher price level in declining lines.

That also was the question a year ago when blanket increases were proposed—whether higher prices could be maintained in the face of discounting practices undermining the price structure already in existence.

It's still the question now.

Competition governs steel prices, not decisions by management. Next to an unemployed steel worker who would make $3.50 an hour if he had a job, nothing is so useless as a ton of steel no one can afford to buy.

Take the advice of the National Safety Council and treat that mower as a weapon. If you use common sense, you will keep children and pets away from the mowing zone; keep your own feet away from the mower when starting it; know how to stop the mower quickly, and avoid rough objects.

Those fast-revolving mower blades which cut a trim swath through the grass also are capable of inflicting a painful injury.

Mower Dangers

The first whirr of rotary power mowers is being heard across fresh green lawns in Salem neighborhoods. As the beauty of spring increases, so do the dangers from the power mowers that are in use.

Take the advice of the National Safety Council and treat that mower as a weapon. If you use common sense, you will keep children and pets away from the mowing zone; keep your own feet away from the mower when starting it; know how to stop the mower quickly, and avoid rough objects.

Those fast-revolving mower blades which cut a trim swath through the grass also are capable of inflicting a painful injury.

The city is worth seeing. The "nation's capital" is worthy of its fame.

This April it was hard to find a magnolia tree or an azalea to admire without seeing a new building in the background. The skyline is jagged with cranes swinging building material into place.

Urbanized Washington is a big city—1,808,000 in the 1960 census. This was broken down into only 763,000 inside the city, fewer than the population in 1950, and all the rest outside.

Like every other place where the auto is handled like a sacred cow, the place is a traffic nightmare. But it is always worth visiting. It is best seen on foot if the feet are willing and able.

... if only they would erect little maps to tell pedestrians where they are and which way they're facing so they would know what they were doing. Even if it cost 10 million it would be worth it to us two-bit taxpayers who see "our capital" on foot.

Nikita's Broken Promise on Cuba Can't be Ignored

By DAVID LAWRENCE

President Kennedy at his latest news conference came close to confessing that his efforts to get the Soviet troops and equipment out of Cuba thus far have failed. He was candid and forthright in conceding that the exact number does not matter too much. He confirmed that a few thousand troops had been withdrawn, while a few hundred others had arrived during the same period. He emphasized that the equipment and a substantial number of troops still are there.

It was significant, moreover, that the President indicated that he is in agreement in principle with Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., one of his Republican critics, who has been arguing that numbers mean less than does the continued presence in Cuba of a Soviet military base.

It could be that Mr. Kennedy was purposely pursuing in part the same argument as some of his critics, because that's one way of letting Premier Khrushchev know that pressure to get his troops and equipment out of Cuba has not lessened and that public opinion in America is very much aroused over the issue.

SOMETIMES this way of handling the problem can be more effective than formal diplomatic notes of protest. The facts are becoming clearer every day—the American people are not going to allow the Cuban problem to be brushed aside — and any American president, regardless of party, would be up against the same demand that something be done to preserve the historic principle of the Monroe Doctrine.

The United States is committed not only by its own statements of policy in past decades but by the international agreements with other governments of this hemisphere to see to it that no European power sets up a military base anywhere in this hemisphere.

Such action is a threat to the security and safety of other countries in both North and South America.

Mr. Kennedy reviewed at his news conference the steps he has taken to apply economic pressure upon the Castro regime.

He referred to the expressed attitude of the Organization of American States in seeking to prevent the export of subversion from Cuba to other countries.

He implied that all feasible steps are being taken but gave no indication of anything more drastic, such as a real blockade.

It was unfortunate, however, that the President made a political reference at his news conference to the events that began in 1959 when Castro came into power.

HE SAID possibly it would have been easier for the Eisenhower administration to get rid of Castro. Here is what Mr. Kennedy said:

"I think it is unfortunate that he (Castro) was permitted to assume control in the 1950s, and perhaps it would have been easier to take an action then than it is now. But those who were in positions of responsibility did not make that judgment."

Mr. Kennedy has himself argued in recent weeks — and so have his official advisers — that the United States should never at any time take steps that would present this government in an imperialist role.

When Castro came into power, he was not known to be a tool of the Soviets. He had not admitted that he was a Communist. There were no Soviet troops in Cuba until August or September 1962.

To have endeavored to remove Castro by American action in 1959 or 1960 would certainly have alienated public opinion in Latin America.

It wasn't until the latter part of 1960 that Castro's alliance with the Moscow government was authoritatively established. It was then that the Eisenhower administration began planning an undercover operation to overthrow him. It was this which finally, under President Kennedy, developed into the Bay of Pigs invasion in April 1961.

The United States decided then to aid the Cuban exiles but not to be a party itself to the military operation.

LOOKING BACK on the events of the last two years of the Eisenhower administration, it seems illogical to contend that it would have been easier to intervene then and get rid of Castro.

Actually, there is a stronger case today against Castro because he has formed a military alliance with the Soviet Union and Soviet troops and equipment still are based on the island, thus constituting a potential threat against the country and other countries in this hemisphere.

Many Latin Americans in positions of influence are already advocating drastic action by the United States.

The question that is daily growing in importance is how long Soviet Premier Khrushchev will dilly-dally and show his contempt for the American people.

Will he take a few troops out of Cuba every month and send some others in? Will he drag out the process not just for months but for years and pursue indefinitely a capricious disregard of his own promises that the Soviet troops will be withdrawn?

The facts no longer can be ignored, and President Kennedy is right in revealing publicly that he is not satisfied that the Soviet pledges to withdraw all their troops from Cuba are being acted on in good faith.

History Today

Today is Friday, April 26, the 116th day of 1963. There are 249 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1862, William Mumford became the only man executed for treason during the Civil War because he hauled down the U.S. flag from atop the New Orleans mint.

On this day— In 1607, Captain John Smith was among the English colonists who landed at Cape Henry to establish the first settlement in Virginia.

In 1731, death came to Daniel DeFoe, author of Robinson Crusoe.

In 1865, President Abraham Lincoln's assassin, John Wilkes Booth, was killed.

In 1930, Col. Charles Lindbergh inaugurated airmail service between Miami and Havana.

In 1954, the Geneva Conference to restore peace in Asia was opened.

Today's birthdays: Novelist Anita Loos is 70. Former South Korean President Syngman Rhee is 88.

Thought for today: It is difficult to make a man miserable while he feels he is worthy of himself and claims kindred to the great God who made him—Abraham Lincoln.

The Ambidextrous Lover

Hoffa and Left Wing Unions

By VICTOR RIESEL

Jimmy Hoffa, the perpetually angry itinerant tactician of unions feuding with the government, has decided to weld them into a massive labor federation of his own — and in his own image. Cadres of this movement — which could weave together two million members — would be a bloc of left-wing unions, some friendly to the Soviets, some eager for recognition of Red China and of course, his Teamsters Brotherhood.

He or his colleagues have met frequently recently with leaders of these left-wing unions behind closed hotel or motel doors in cities ranging from Stockton, Cal to the U.S. capital.

They have discussed joint political action, joint marches on Washington in caravans made up of cars with six men each, drives to unionize agricultural workers, plans for a campaign for a national expiration date of all labor in the U.S. which could make possible a general strike, unionizing of warehouses and inland waterways.

DARINGLY and somewhat stridently, he has moved from convention to convention of these left-wing unions. Elated by wild cheering and standing ovations, he has praised the men who were ousted years ago from the old CIO.

It was at the recent Denver convention of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers that he shouted, "On these unions rest the hope of the American labor movement." He referred to his hosts — the Mine, Mill Workers; the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union led by Harry Bridges; the United Electrical Workers; Teamsters, and certain other independent unions.

It was some three weeks later at the Harry Bridges convention in San Francisco that Hoffa proposed that the nation's unions adopt a common expiration date. This might be necessary, he added.

LITTLE LIZ

The only time it's sensible to trust your first hunch is when it's your last chance.

ed, to balance an attack on unions in Congress. Under a non-contract, no-work policy, a general strike would be possible.

ON THE SAME platform the next day, the policy of closer cooperation was hailed by Albert Fitzgerald, president of the United Electrical Workers.

Hoffa may not be aware of it, but this union once was declared persona non grata by the Atomic Energy Commission at a vital secret atomic installation in central New York.

As for Hoffa's good friend Harry Bridges, that longshoreman has long urged trade with Communist China. Bridges is an outspoken friend of the Soviets. Often he has urged fraternal relations, for example, with the so-called Soviet trade unions.

The AFL-CIO policy is to reject any effort by the Russian labor people to establish "exchange" visits and contracts.

After ripping into this policy at a convention of the United Electrical Workers not too long ago, Bridges called AFL-CIO President George Meany, "the prime prowar spokesman" in the U.S.

MEANY HAS fought the Communists across the world. He has kept strategic unions on four continents from falling into the hands of the Soviet labor apparatus, known as the World Federation of Trade Unions, whose leaders played host to Bridges during the latter's trip to Europe and the Soviet Union.

Just how much of this history Hoffa knows, no one knows. But from now on he should know the nature of his industrial and political allies.

Hoffa appears determined to keep his alliances and head them for full federation. He has been perpetually angry — but in recent weeks he has been angrier than ever with George Meany because of the Philadelphia story.

Th rebel group there, known as "The Voice," has disturbed him more than has been reported. It isn't only the threat of losing some 8,200 drivers to the opposition which has nettled Hoffa. It's the fact that they are general truck drivers — the backbone of the teamsters.

THE DISSIDENTS, as is known, lost one Labor Board election in four locals and then got a second chance at a polling when the regional NLRB ruled that the rebels had been subjected to brutal violence and vandalism.

Hoffa was further infuriated when he learned that this time the national AFL-CIO leaders were raising funds to help "The Voice." Money — not enough to match the expenditures of the pro-Hoffa crowd — has been coming in from a score of unions, with Paul Hall's Seafarers in the lead.

Furthermore, the rebels openly campaigned for a return to the AFL-CIO — meaning to Meany's leadership.

It was during this campaign that reports from inside Hoffa's camp began filtering out — reports on his sulfurous determination to build a labor federation of his own to tackle the big AFL-CIO itself.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the reader who complained about his pet gripe, "Seat Savers," gave me the courage to air my pet gripe—"Line Crashers."

Even the most stupid and insensitive slob should realize that people who make an effort to get to a place early resent the crasher.

Invariably the late arrivals scan the head of the line for a familiar face. Then they rush over and make with the big hello. In a few minutes someone turns to you and says, "Do you mind?" And they elbow their way in line.

What can a person say except, "Of course not," even though he is boiling inside I would like to have your answer in print because my sentiments are shared by millions who are also stumped.—ANTIPUSHERS.

Dear Anti: If you resent line-crashers, don't just stand there like a tower of tapioca. Say, "Yes, I do mind. The end of the line is down there."

P.S.: The Line Crashers are probably the ones who turn out to be Seat Savers once they get inside.

International Affair

Dear Ann: I'm a student at a Midwestern college. We have several foreign students here and I find them very interesting—particularly one young man with whom I have become infatuated.

I always believed my parents were democratic and broad minded but I was mistaken. They strongly disapprove of my romance with this foreign student.

I always have had deep feelings about brotherhood and equality. I hate discrimination of any kind. So many people talk one way and live another. Please print this letter and express your views on the subject. It will be of interest to many college students.—INTERNATIONAL PROBLEM.

Dear International: You haven't told me whether this foreign student is of your race and religion but you indicate he is not. If he is, I see no reason why you should not continue the romance.

I am against interfaith and interracial dating—and this goes for the boy next door as well as the boy from half a world away. Dating leads to mating, without doing the problem of religious and racial differences.

In the area of civil rights I believe strongly in equality. But dating and marriage are matters of personal choice. I believe in the individual's freedom to make the choice but every study on marriage and divorce which I have seen indicates that the chances for success are greater when people stick to their own.

Daughter's Problem

Dear Ann: How can I correct this situation without hurting my son-in-law's feelings? Jeff is a wonderful fellow and I don't know what to do about the problem he is causing our family.

Jeff has an unmarried brother who is sweet on my youngest daughter, Sally. She does not care for Jeff's brother but she feels she must be polite to him. In the meantime, Jeff brings his brother to our house at least three times a week.

I have hinted strongly but Jeff doesn't get it. Is there anything that can be done, short of coming right out and telling Jeff his brother is not welcome—THREE'S A CROWD.

Dear Crowd: Doesn't Sally have vocal cords I can't see that this is your problem—or your son-in-law's. Your daughter should tell the pest straight away that she's not interested in him and to stop coming over. You and your son-in-law should not become involved. It's Sally's responsibility.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: Here is the best way I know of to get ahead of your neighbor and have your tomatoes, green peppers and beans get ahead of his!

For those who like to grow their own important plants . . . start your own seed box.

Take a milk carton—either paper or plastic, but I find plastic best—and tape the top where the milk pours out with tape.

Lay the carton down sideways. Take your wife's sharpest knife and cut out one side of the box. (I found that if you leave a little edge that it re-reinforces the carton. Heloise)

Fill the bottom of the box with your favorite residuals such as rocks, sand etc. then put your favorite soil on top of this.

Take your wife's favorite kitchen fork (I found her big cold meat fork was best!) and "plow" the top of the sifted soil about one-half inch deep.

SPRINKLE your seeds across this plowed surface. Gently smooth the soil.

Take your wife's salt shaker and fill it with water . . . after rinsing out the salt of course! The salt shaker is wonderful when used to water these tender seeds. This allows the dirt not to become hardened when trying to grow tiny seeds. This is most important.

These plants may be beautifully transplanted.

When seeds are grown this way, they may be started earlier than usual and can also be grown in kitchen windows and later the box maybe put outside the back door or placed in a flower bed to get them used to the climate before transplanting.

JOSEPH S.

DEAR HELOISE: I tear — never cut salad greens — and after washing gently place them in a large salad bowl on a layer of damp paper toweling. Cover the greens with a double layer of dry paper toweling upon which have been placed six to eight ice cubes. Set aside in the coldest part of the refrigerator for at least one hour.

When ready to use the greens are crisp and crunchy. The paper towels will catch most of the ice water.

B. L.

DEAR HELOISE: After the plastic ends come off the children's shoe laces, I thread them through the hole again and tie a knot so the frayed ends cannot slip back out through the holes again. Saves rethreading next day etc.

When making the children's beds, I put the length of the sheets and blankets cross-wise on their beds. They need not be tucked in at the feet and this gives me much more room to tuck in on each side.

Helps keep the children from getting uncovered and also from falling out of bed! (Children are so small their feet never come to the end of the bed like grown persons so why waste all that sheet on the tuck-under at the bottom?)

combined European nuclear force into being as soon as possible by selling—not granting—the required nuclear materials.

Such sales, Rockefeller said, should be at a rate "related to progress toward European integration."

"We would continue to hold the final voice in nuclear matters," the governor said. "This may be what he administration wants, but no matter how disguised with labels of multilateralism, it clearly is neither partnership nor community."

Red Harass U.S. 'Copters Over Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet planes approached two U.S. helicopters over East Berlin today in an apparent effort to discourage their routine flights over the Communist half of the city.

U.S. sources said the Soviet planes came within 500 yards of the helicopters.

The helicopters returned unharmed to West Berlin after flights lasting about 40 minutes.

The helicopters were on routine flights in the Berlin Control Zone, which stretches over both parts of the city.

The Soviets have objected repeatedly to American helicopter flights over East Berlin, but the Western Allies contend that they have a right to fly anywhere in the control zone. The zone covers a circle of 20 miles radius from the center of the city.

Last August the Soviets threatened to shoot down an American helicopter which took off on a routine flight over the zone after filing a flight plan with the Berlin Air Safety Center. The center is administered by all four occupation powers — the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

The Soviets did not carry out their threat, and the U.S. commandant in Berlin protested to the Soviet commandant.

"I believe that no one will suspect that in stating this, I have in mind any special standing of my own in the party," he said.

"For everyone understands that I cannot hold for all time the position I now have in the party and the state. Therefore, speaking of this, I do not think of myself, but of our Leninist party, the Soviet people and the great cause of communism."

He warned the intellectuals that the party did not intend to give up its controls when it assailed the Stalin "cult of the personal."

IBOP Gets More Proposals For July Convention

Pottery local unions have filed 29 more proposed resolutions for action at the 60th annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters, which will open in July at Las Vegas.

Listing the proposals today in its official newspaper, The Potters Herald, the IBOP said no final determination has been made on their constitutionality by legal counsel or the executive board.

Here are the highlights of the resolutions:

Hold international conventions every two years, instead of annually, as at present, to help reduce the financial drain on local union treasuries, which bear delegates' expenses.

Require that a new or reinstated local must be in good standing with the international for six months before its members can collect strike benefits.

Hire a full-time time study engineer for the eastern and western offices.

Allow a retired member to continue paying dues to a local union if he does not have the required 25 years' service to receive the full $500 death benefit.

Select convention committee members by lot and allow the committee to elect its own chairman.

Require that returns from each local be published in the official newspaper when there is an election for international officers.

Require that all resolutions presented at the convention be voted upon on the floor, rather than allowing some to be ruled out of order by the Executive Board.

Require a vote of the trade within 60 days to affirm any resolution passed at the convention.

Allow recently-consolidated locals to return to their former status, if they wish, along with restoration of their original charters and return of money and records.

Repeal sections of the constitution which prevent decision of the Executive Board from being brought before the convention.

Baltimore Reclaims AL Lead, Nips Athletics 3-2

Twins Blank Senators 3-0

Los Angeles Thumps Detroit Tigers 7-5

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Steve Barber provided the pitching and Jim Gentile the power in Baltimore's 3-2, 10-inning victory over Kansas City Thursday night as the Orioles reclaimed the American League lead and the A's dropped from first to third.

Gentile's 10th inning homer wrapped up and maintained against the A's. The young lefty is 10-0 against them for his career.

The Chicago White Sox, who were idle, remained in second place while Kansas City slipped to the third place standing it vacated just the day before.

Jack Kralick of Minnesota pitched a three-hitter in the Twins' 3-0 triumph over the Senators at Washington and Los Angeles thumped the Tigers 7-5 in Detroit in the only other games on the light schedule.

Barber, 24, a lefty spaced out seven hits and struck out seven, but was no better than even with the A's until Gentile smashed a 1-2 pitch into the left field bleachers, an opposite-field hit for the left-handed hitter.

Al Smith's two-run homer accounted for the Orioles' first runs, but Kansas City matched them on an unsuccessful doubleplay attempt in the fourth and Norm Siebern's run-scoring single in the sixth. Joh Wyatt lost in relief.

The Twins' Kralick, who had been shut out in losing his first three games, blanked Washington on just three singles and scored the only run he needed when he tripled and came in on Lenny Green's single in the third.

The Angels hit four homers, two by Leon Wagner, and pinned the first loss of the season on Detroit's Hank Aguirre. Wagner, Bob Rodgers and Ken Hunt had homers as the Angels rushed in six runs in lefty.

Wagner also had a homer off Dick Egan, but the Angels needed a solid relief performance by Julio Navarro to make it stand up after Detroit rallied for five runs in the fifth.

Archery Club's Zeal Offsets Few Members

Group To Be Host At Shoot on Sunday

By GLENN SCHOTTEN
A lot of hard wood and feathers will be zooming through the air at high speed Sunday on an archery shoot at a target mine two miles east of Lisbon.

The occasion: the big Early Bird invitational archery shoot at which the Columbiana County Archers Association will be host. Eight other clubs in the Steel Valley Archers Association will compete, starting at 10 a.m. About 125 archers will participate.

The Columbiana County unit is a relatively small, but enthusiastic group headed by Louis Emelo of 1880 Maple St.

WITH THIS GROUP archery is not just a matter of zeroing in on a target fastened to a bale of straw. Target shooting, of course, is important. But bringing down a deer, rabbit or other game is the real prize in the back of most members' minds.

"Ninety per cent of our members hunt with bow and arrow," Emelo reports, fingering a wicked looking metal arrow point that can stop the biggest buck in his tracks. The president has bagged four deer using this swift, silent method.

The other officers, vice president John Stein, secretary Janet Sullivan, and treasurer, Floyd Ward of Leetonia, also go on hunting forays. Janet got a rabbit with her bow and arrow last season.

BUT THE FINE ART of archery shows up best on the range such as the locals' course on Route 164 between Columbiana and Lisbon. Targets are set at distances of from 20 feet to 80 yards, placed in both wooded areas and in open fields to simulate hunting conditions.

For safety reasons, rules and regulations drawn up by the National Field Archers Association

PLENTY OF PULL — There's a total of 120 pounds of pull on the bow strings of these three archers taking aim at a practice session before Sunday's district tournament near Lisbon. Lined up are officers of the Columbiana County Archers Association, secretary Janet Sullivan of 487 1/2 E. 7th St.; treasurer Floyd Ward of RD 2, Leetonia; and president Louis Emelo of Maple St. Not pictured is vice president John Stein.

are followed to a "T." The course is inspected and approved by the field governor before meets can be held.

Emelo likes to think of archery as a good family sport. The county club has members ranging from 14 years on up.

IT INVOLVES MORE strength and stamina than the uninitiated realize. There's a 40-pound pull on that stout, nylon string and plenty of brisk walking over a rugged terrain. At a tournament, a contestant shoots at as many as 56 targets, four arrows to a target.

Emelo has been a money- and time-saver to many of his archery associates. He re-tips arrows, refashions them with turkey plumes, using a gadget with a toaster wire that burns off the feathers at exactly the right angle to send the arrow in a beeline path.

The Sunday all-day tourney will consist of 28 field and 28 animal targets. The Steel Valley Team shoot is set for July 20, an afternoon event in which five members from each team fire at 28 targets. Final shoot of the year sponsored by the locals will be held Sept. 21. "Being so close to hunting season, this might be an animal round," Emelo says.

THE CLUB SHOOTs under the classification system to give everyone an equal chance. One of the club's and northeast Ohio's best scorers is Bob Clark of East Palestine who averages 475 points of a possible 560. Ward, also rank high, shooting in the class just below the club's top marksman.

Emelo hopes to enlist more participation in the six-year-old organization. "The more members we have, the more fun we have," the president said.

Giants Whip Cards 8-4, Tie For NL Lead

Surprising Mets Continue To Win, Nip Cubs 3-2; Dodgers Rip Cincy

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Casey Stengel's New York Mets edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2 Thursday and now are 6-9 on the season for a .400 percentage—the highest in their history.

The Mets, who usually find one day of the week as bad as the one before and no better than the one coming up, used Frank Thomas' run-producing single in the first inning and a two-run sixth inning homer for the first Thursday victory in their two-season history.

Coupled with Thomas' hitting was the tight seven-hit pitching of Roger Craig and a rare third to first shortstop doubleplay that ended the game.

Lou Brock, who scored both Cubs runs, singled with one out in the ninth inning and attempted to go to third base as Charlie Neal threw out Ken Hubbs. A quick throw by first baseman Gil Hodges to Al Moran, the shortstop covering third, nailed the speeding Brock.

Bob Miller, who survived a 1-12 season with the Mets and was traded to Los Angeles, exceeded his 1962 victory total as he won his second with a five-hitter in the Dodgers' 7-1 triumph over Cincinnati. The Dodgers have won five of six.

Elsewhere, San Francisco

moved into a tie with St. Louis for first place in the National League by beating the Cards 8-4, and Houston beat Milwaukee 7-5. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

The amazing Mets got their first run off Dick Ellsworth on singles by Ron Hunt, Charlie Neal and Thomas. In the sixth, Neal doubled and Thomas slammed one out of the park. Brock came across with the first Cub run in the fifth, scoring on Jimmy Schaffer's double. Bob Will's pinch-hit single drove in Brock in the

The victory was the first in three decisions for Craig while Ellsworth's record was brought to 2-2.

Miller allowed the Reds' only run in the seventh when Johnny Edwards doubled, took third on a fly and scored on an infield out. It was Miller's second victory without a loss.

John Roseboro, Willie Davis and Ron Fairly backed Miller's pitching with homers off Joey Jay, who has lost four without winning.

The Giants moved out front to stay in the second inning when Orlando Cepeda hit a solo homer and Ed Bailey connected with one on. Bailey also singled home a run in the third inning off loser Ray Sadecki. Billy O'Dell was the San Francisco, but the victory went to reliever Bob Bolin.

Former Braves Don Nottebart, Don McMahon and Al Spangler did most of the damage for the Colts. Nottebart won his third without a loss with help from McMahon while Spangler singled in the run that snapped a 2-2 tie as Houston came up with five runs and tagged Hank Fischer with the defeat.

A GIRLS SOFTBALL team is being formed in the city, and try-outs for the squad will be held at Kelly Park Sunday at 3 p.m.

Kay Stiles of Akron, who guided Wooster Lumber to the girls state title in 1961, will manage the team. The girls will open their season at Dalton June 1.

Home and home games have been booked with Hubbard, Dalton, Wooster, Harley Davidson of Bloomfield and Johnston VFW, Columbus, Adrian Michigan, 1963 defending state champion Lorain and Detroit may also be scheduled.

The Salem unit will appear in double headers at Kelly Park during weekends.

The girls will compete in a tournament at Indianapolis in July, and the Ohio district and state events.

THE FIRST ANNUAL Salem Jaycees singles handicap tournament will be held at Timberlane May 6-10.

Anyone can enter. Trophies will be awarded at the conclusion of the event. Entry fee is

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

A word from THERON at the Country Store

It has been mentioned to me someone was complaining we get too much protection from our sheriff's department here at the Country Store. There are weeks when they stop in almost every night for a cup of coffee then we don't see them for a while. I feel honored to have them.

You see, we do have good coffee here and it's only a nickle. Members of our sheriff's dept. live on their salaries, they appreciate good values just like other thrifty people.

We can't give them a free cup, their boss want's them obligated to no one. Did you know it costs each resident of our good county just over a dollar a year for their protection.

My personal and real estate taxes cost me almost two thousand dollars each year.

Jean Redpath, Columbiana, Ohio
